Brother Jim enrolls at GSC. pledges KA

By TONE LOC
Staff Writer

The Reverend Jim Gilles, better known as Brother Jim, has enrolled at Georgia Southern this quarter and pledged Kappa Alpha fraternity.

Brother Jim, who for years has condemned GSC students and Greeks as whores, drunks and sinful beings said he decided the atmosphere at GSC wasn't so bad after all.

"If you can't beat 'em, join 'em," Jim said. "KA's have a lot of fun, and I finally realized after I left here that I was missing out on all that fun."

"I have realized that the life of a god-forsaken blasphemer might not be so bad after all," said Brother Jim as his KA big brother Guido guided him through the pledging process. When asked how he felt about having Jim become one of the KA bro's, Guido said, "We are down home kinda people and a bro like Jim here is just the kinda pimple we'd like to have on the face of our fraternity."

"Now that I am here on Southern's campus I am learning how to live among the people and lie among them and it is the greatest time of my life," continued the Reverend. "I have traveled the highway too much like Michael Landon has for far too many years and it is time now for me to indulge in the lowly pleasures of life. If it were not for the KA's I don't know what I would have done with my life. The life of an evangelist is a monotonous one and by far a one that is much to clean."

"If I were to start my life over I would wish to have been baptized in the waters of beautiful Eagle Creek and I would've lead my own flock astray into the sinful and delectable pleasures of being in the Boro—the only place to be," said Brother Jim. He then wiped drool from his mouth apparently caused by the previous passage of some very well endowed 'Hot Females' [pronounced Famales] wearing tight clothes.

"Well, I've gotta go now. Night is coming and it's time to go get a cold one," Jim said as he headed off toward Dingus Magees.

Lost civilization found near lake

By INDIANA JONES
Staff Rock Finder

Yesterday, GSC archaeologist Sue Moore found remnants of a long lost civilization beside the pond of the Zach Henderson Library.

Moore was walking from the Newton Building to the library when she noticed that Spike the Goose was carrying what appeared to be a Classic Mycenae pot-herd, possibly from Atlantis. She then approached Spike, who dropped the pot-herd and began attacking her. Suffering from a few beak-bites, Moore was able to recover the fragment after a long struggle.

Moore then sent the sherd to Dr. K.L. All from the University of Georgia for further analysis. All confirmed the antiquity of the piece.

Moore then began using mythological cross-referencing techniques developed by Erich Von Daniken to formulate a theory of its origin.

After careful consideration, it was decided that Zeus must have appeared to Leda as a goose, and not a swan, and that Spike must be a distant relative. According to this theory, "Given her supernatural progenitor, Spike's grand-matriarch possessed the physical fortitude essential for trans-Atlantic flight."

There is speculation that prior to her flight, this 'super-goose' aided in building the Egyptian pyramids by flying two tons of stone into place. It has been speculated that she then flew to Meso-America, where she helped the Mayans build pyramids as well. From there, her descendants could easily have traveled to GSC, with the family heirloom pot-herd in beak.

Next, Sue Moore intends to investigate a claim that there is an 11,000-year-old Mastodon in the freezer at Landrum. She will have to hurry, though, as they plan to serve it next week.

Union opening delayed indefinitely

By HERN SNEED
Staff Writer

College officials announced Monday that the opening of the new college union has been indefinitely postponed.

Last Friday, inspectors from the Board of Regents examined the structure and stated that it would be uninhabitable unless several million dollars was spent to renovate the building's structure.

Upon inspection, it was determined that the building had several gross structural faults. The foundation was slanted 3 degrees to the northwest, making the ground floor prone to flooding, and that faulty electrical wiring previously installed poses a serious fire hazard.

Estimates are still out on the cost of the changes. The Board of Regents announced that due to massive cost overruns in the initial construction, they would provide no more financial assistance.

GSC President Henry said, "I think it is awful that such a calamity has befallen this fine and growing university. I feel confident that we will be able to enlist the financial resources of our alumni in order to complete this project by fall 1992."

Frank Waits, a marketing student at GSC, commented "I never really expected it to open before I graduated (spring 91). It was kinda nice to entertain the thought, but I guess that's all shot to hell now."

Eastwood to buy Boro

By Arnold Schwarzenegger
Special Strongman For The George-Anne

A recent flurry of investments and land purchases in Statesboro has caused many residents to wonder just what is going on. According to high-level sources, a large number of investors backed by a silent partner have bought large chunks of Statesboro real estate. Recent purchases include land for Foodmax, Days Inn, Gate Oil, and K-Mart, all of which have been or will be built by year's end.

The George-Anne's special assignment squad has uncovered the identity of the silent partner who backs these investments. The silent partner is none other than Clint Eastwood.

In an exclusive interview, Eastwood disclosed the purpose of his investments. "I like Statesboro. It seems like it would be a great place to film the next Dirty Harry. Besides, if Kim Basinger can buy Braselton, why can't I buy Statesboro?"

Clint Eastwood

Statesboro Mayor Thurman Lanier remarked, "I feel that this irrational intrusion by Mr. Eastwood into rural Georgia could adversely effect the existing infrastructure that has bonded this community for so many years."

The Statesboro City Council refrained from commenting on the actor's plans and activities. However, one member who asked that his name be withheld did say that he hoped Eastwood would consider him for a large speaking part in the actor's next movie. "It would make my day."

Students design car to cure parking problem

By IWAN TURMONEY

That guy who just hangs around the office all day

Two GSC Math/Physics students have successfully developed a vehicle which actually fits into the campus's 'small car' spaces. The car uses unleaded gas, and can reach 45 miles per hour. A mechanical governor, however, will be placed on the vehicles so that they will not exceed the campus speed limit of 20 miles per hour.

The college plans to purchase 500 of the vehicles at $795 each to rent to students at a rate of $800 per quarter. (in an unusual act of generosity, the college will waive the parking permit fee for the students renting the cars. The expected lifespan of the vehicles is five years, but the number of speed-breakers around campus will cut the lifespan in half, as it does all other cars.

The small car is displayed by its inventors. It will be offered this fall for $800 per quarter.

Dr. Git Goen, head of the college Department of Transportation, plans to have the rental system in place by fall 1990.

Last weekend Theatre South began dress rehearsals for its Spring production, Caligula.

The production is an erotic affair based upon the sordid life of Caligula whom many feel was the most immoral of all Roman Emperors.

In a conference held yesterday evening members of Theatre South and the GSC Communication Arts Department addressed community concerns that the play's production would give the college and the community, in the words of one Statesboro resident, "a black eye."

Supporters of the play were able to soothe the fears of concerned persons and a compromise was reached. When shown the potential profitability of the production, all parties concerned acquiesced to its production. Certain strictures will apply, no one under 18 years of age will be admitted to see the play.

The Play will be performed nightly from April 13-26 admission will be $10 for students, $5 for GSC faculty and staff and $25 for all others.

After the conference one GSC English professor commented, "I've

been waiting for something like this to happen for a long time but I never thought that it would happen. I guess all that work that I've been doing through the Film Classics finally had a positive effect on the college and the community."

A press conference is scheduled for this afternoon where it is expected that Theatre South will announce that it will be performing Caligula on April 27 and 28 in the Savannah Civic Center. The six hour extravaganza is scheduled to feature Theatre South's Caligula followed by Cher in concert then followed by the smashing theatric success Oh Calcutta!

In all Theatre South expects to earn approximately $75,000 from the play. Profits are expected to go towards the construction of a facility to replace the dilapidated McCroan Auditorium.

Demolition of GSC Wall planned

By IMA CRUEL B.
Administrative Bureau

GSC President Nick Henry announced at the Marvin Pittman PTA meeting last night that the "Wall" would be torn down within the month. Said Henry in his speech to the PTA, "It is time we turned from looking in upon ourselves. Now is the time for us to make a statement in support of the great changes that our shaping our world today. The demolition of this wall is a symbolic gesture but through this gesture all will know the spirit of freedom and democracy that beats within every heart here at GSC."

After his speech Henry answered questions from concerned parents. One parent asked, "what will happen to the playground arof the Marvin Pittman School when the walls supporting them are torn down?"

Henry responded, "The playground will have to go. It would probably be in the best interests of all persons involved, if we bulldoze it into a slope after the wall is removed."

"Of course," added Henry "the kids will be without a playground in the Spring, but those are the pains of being a growing institution. Besides, next Fall we're going to bring in a nice modular playground which won't cost too much to rent and can be taken away when we're finished with it."

The way of the world, according to Dan Quayle

By J. DANFORTH QUAYLE
Just Happy to be Here

Pssst, listen! Broccoli Head—I mean, His Royal Majestic Mr. President George Bush gave me an assignment. Yeah, I was as shocked as you most assuredly are.

Anyway, he told me to write a news article about some visiting dance group or something. Naturally, I thought he was probably referring to the Rockettes or that aerobics team that dances at halftime of basketball games for the GSC Eagles.

But NO!!! President Bush—or is it really Saturday Night Live's Dana Carvey? "It wouldn't be prudent at this juncture." Well, whoever he is, you voted for him. And me, too. I thank you. My daddy's wallet thanks you, too. He can't support me for the rest of his life, can he? Well, he can, but that's just between you and me and the four walls, right? Good.

Back to the point. Wait, I haven't gotten to the point yet. Okay then, to the point. Don't you just love the way that politicians talk and talk and talk and talk and pontificate and elucidate and spout off and catch diarrhea of the mouth and NEVER REALLY SAY ANYTHING?

While our audiences are sitting rather uncomfortably in their chairs, we—the popularly-elected leaders of this country, the people with our fingers on the pulse of society, the individuals who decide the world's future, the morally-righteous men who fight to forbid you and your love slave from doing what we do every chance we get—pile up the BS nice and high. Sometimes, I can't even see over it.

Or understand it. When that happens, I just smile and nod and everyone assumes I'm keeping up.

What a wonderful way to earn a living.

To the point. What is it again? Oh yes, the dance troupe.

A dance troupe called AMAN is going to perform at GSC April 5.

AMAN—why do they call themselves A Man when there are six of them? You know, this may surprise you, but there are some things in life that I simply don't understand. When I get confused—which happens often—I ask Marilyn and the kids to help me.

Usually, I don't have to ask. Whenever my wife Marilyn sees me curled up naked in the fetal position in my treehouse and sucking my thumb, she always says, "Kids, it's time to set Daddy straight again. Hurry before he starts that high-pitched whining that makes the dogs howl."

My wife. I think I'll keep her. She's smart as a whip, you know. It was her idea for me to get into politics. If she looked more like Paulina Porizkova than Mr. Ed, though, I wouldn't have been forced to spend that wild weekend in Florida with those teenage rock groupies.

I told Marilyn I played golf the whole weekend. She believed me, too, even though I had left my golf bag at home. Maybe she's not as smart as I thought.

Back to the point. AMAN—I still don't like that name. I'm going to call them something else.

SIXMEN, a dance troupe composed of people who look like that guy who always belly dances in the Savannah St. Patrick's Day parade, are going to perform this Thursday at 8 PM in Foy Recital Hall.

Admission is free for those of you who want to see six men auditioning for a late-night used car commercial.

I have to turn this article in to Mr. Bush now. I hope he approves. It's the first thing with my name on it that I've actually written since elementary school. Marilyn did all my other assignments for me. What a horse. Oops, I meant what a woman. Really, I did.

"Hey, ladies, over here! Don't you know that men who wear scarves on their heads and cloth shoes on their feet are the most potent? It's true."

The world...after much presidential editing

By PATRICK SCOTT
Guest Writer

AMAN, a folk dance troupe, will perform April 5 at 8 PM in Foy Auditorium.

AMAN was founded in Los Angeles in 1964 to perform a variety of regional folk dances. The core of their dances is from Canada and France, but they draw dances from all around the world.

One dance that AMAN presents is a part of Georgia's history. They perform clogging from the Appalachian mountains that has become known as the Appalachian style.

Every night, the show takes a new twist because of the variety of dances that the company knows.

"The differences exists from show to show whether it takes place at home or on tour," said Barry Glass, the artistic director. "AMAN is a repertory company, which means that we keep many more pieces in the working repertoire than we put into any given performance."

Dancer training is a major importance to Glass, both before and after they join AMAN.

"At an audition, we look for potential rather than total familiarity with one or more traditional styles," Glass said. "There is no single technique or schooling that prepares the performer for AMAN."

This is another production in CLEC's Performing Artist Series.

Free tickets for GSC students, staff, and faculty will be available at the information window at the Administration Building with presentation of ID from 8 AM to 5 PM daily until April 5, the day of the performance.

1990-91 Elections for College Media Positions

The Media Committee of Georgia Southern College announces elections to choose student members of the 1990-91 broadcast and editorial boards of the college's official student media (The GEORGE-ANNE, REFLECTOR, MISCELLANY and WVGS/FM).

Students interested in applying for an elected position will be expected to present a letter of application to the chairperson of the Media Committee. Student applicants must also sign a waiver (included with this advertisement) which gives permission to the chairperson of the Media Committee to validate the candidate's academic standing. A student may indicate the position(s) sought either in their letter of application or on the waiver form. However, a separate letter should be submitted for each medium, if a student wishes to apply for more than one medium.

TERM: The term of office for the editorial and broadcast boards shall be the next four quarters following the spring elections and shall expire at the end of four quarters or at the end of the next spring quarter whichever comes first.

QUALIFICATIONS: Specific qualifications for persons holding board positions are listed below. Prior experience may be considered in lieu of stated qualifications. The media are listed in alphabetical order but the board positions within each medium as listed in ranking order.

THE GEORGE-ANNE

Editor—The editor should have completed two years of college work, at least one year at Georgia Southern. An editor should have served on the staff one year and should display capabilities required for the position. The editor is responsible for the preparation of a commentary section for each edition. The editor serves as the chief executive office of the newspaper and is ultimately responsible for the total editorial content of each edition. (Pay: $575 per quarter)

Managing Editor—The managing editor should have completed at least one year at Georgia Southern and should have served at least two quarters on the staff. The managing editor should be familiar with basic journalistic practices such as layout, copy editing, and news and feature writing. The managing editor will be responsible for coordinating the editorial content in all sections of the newspaper, such as news, sports and features. The managing editor (with the assistance of the news editor) will be responsible for the preparation of the front page. (Pay: $500 per quarter)

News Editor—The news editor should know basic news writing and should be familiar with news sources on campus. The news editor should demonstrate news judgment and should have served at least one quarter on the staff of the paper. The news editor will be responsible for all news gathering operations of the newspaper. The news editor assists the managing editor in the preparation of the front page. (Pay: $500 per quarter)

Business Manager—The business manager should have completed one year at Georgia Southern and should have served at least one quarter on the staff. The business manager should be familiar with college accounting and payroll procedures and should demonstrate strong organizational skills. The business manager will be responsible for the recruitment of business assistants and circulation representatives. (Pay: $500 per quarter)

Advertising Manager—The advertising manager should have completed one year at Georgia Southern and should have served at least two quarters on the staff. The advertising manager should demonstrate ability to handle advertising sales and advertising layouts. The advertising manager will recruit sales representatives and coordinate their activities. (Pay: $500 per quarter)

MISCELLANY

Editor—The editor should have completed two years of college work, at least one year at Georgia Southern. The editor should demonstrate both the interest and the talent to create a quality literary and art publication for the college. The editor, in cooperation with the faculty advisor, will select a student editorial board to assist in publication duties. The editor will be responsible for the total editorial content of the magazine. (Pay: $350 per quarter)

REFLECTOR

Editor—The editor should have completed two years of college work, at least one year at Georgia Southern. The editor should have served at least one year on the staff and should be familiar with yearbook copy writing, layout of pages and cropping of pictures. (Pay: $575 per quarter)

Managing Editor—The managing editor should have completed one year at Georgia Southern and should have served at least two quarters on the staff. The managing editor should be familiar with yearbook production and college business procedures. (Pay: $500 per quarter)

Art Director—The art director should have completed at least one year at Georgia Southern and should have served on the staff at least two quarters. The art director should be knowledgeable of all aspects of yearbook production, including layout and design, computer graphics, and all photographic processes used by the yearbook. The art director will be responsible for management of yearbook photographers. (Pay: $500 per quarter)

WVGS/FM

Station Manager—The station manager should have completed two years of college work, at least one year at Georgia Southern, and should have served at least three quarters on the staff of the station. The manager should display leadership qualities and should have a basic knowledge of Federal Communications Commission rules and regulations, broadcast equipment, and budgetary matters. (Pay: $350 per quarter)

Hand to Mouth: Movie reviews with a twist

By BIGFOOT and NESSIE

Staff Writers

Section Editor's Note: Partial credit for the following column must be given to Dr. Tot Ally Senseless for translating the various grunts, squeals, and scratching movements of our staff writers from Animalese into English. Also, thanks to Hartz for the flea collars and IBM for the sonar equipment.

Sorry, but we lost the $1 million underwater camera and the $5 miniature submarine somewhere off the coast of Scotland during a big—no, tremendous—storm. No, make that a hurricane. Yeah, that's the ticket. A waterspout, a gigantic mountain of water, whisked them away just like they were Toto and Dorothy in Kansas or something.

(Lights go up on studio set designed to look like balcony of theater)

The Loch Ness Monster: Greetings and welcome to Hand to Mouth, Bigfoot and Nessie At the Movies. I am Nessie. You can recognize me instantly by my Scottish brogue and my elegantly curving neck. My much hairier partner is perhaps more familiar to you since he is an American citizen, but I'm much prettier and I don't scratch myself in public. Or in private, because I don't have any fingers.

Bigfoot: Go feed your face or somethin', Dollface.

(Nessie waddles away to buy an e-e-e-xtra large tub of popcorn)

Who cares about some overgrown lizard? Dinosaurs have been extinct for centuries, despite the recent attempts by Madison Avenue to bring them back. Out-of-focus pictures of hairy 8-foot monsters who look like a taller-than-average guy in a cheap gorilla costume, now that's where it's at.

Our film today is a new one from Tri-Star Pictures. I Love you to Death stars Kevin Kline as Joey Boca, a man after my own heart. Just look in this press kit, friends. Boca is "filled with so much life he hardly knows what to do with himself. Friends, food, work, play, sex—he's a glutton for them all. If he could make love to every woman in Tacoma, he would, but his wife has other plans."

Just like a woman to ruin a man's good time, huh?

Nessie (returning): Watch your mouth, fleabag. Why don't we talk about Joey's wife Rosalie for a while? At the beginning of the film, Rosalie, played by Fox network's Tracey Ullman, rationalizes his flirting because he's Italian. Does that give the right to do the nasty with more women than he can keep track of, including Victoria Jackson, the ditz blonde from Saturday Night Live? I don't think so.

When Rosalie decided to murder

The cast of the new film, "I Love you to Death," reviewed this week by Bigfoot and Nessie (photo: Abominable Snowman)

the philandering pizza pusher, I stood up and applauded—well, I smacked my tail against the wall. When the construction crew repaired the damage I caused to the theater, I saw the rest of the film.

Big: To try to kill Joey, your friend and your wife's, this Rosalie chick gets all kinds of people into the act: her mother, played by Joan Plowright; some amateur gunmen, played by that master of palimony suits William Hurt and Keanu Reeves, the co-star of both Parenthood and Bill and Ted's Excellent Adventure. Stream Pterodactyl plays one of Joey's pizzeria employees who loves Rosalie.

Nessie: No, no, no. That little cutie's name is River Phoenix, not whatever it was that you said.

Big: Well, excuse me for having a brain larger than a butter bean, Genius. Do you mind if we rate the film now, or do you want to throw another truckload of butter on that popcorn?

Nessie (rolling her eyes): On a scale of one to four, I give I Love you to Death two-and-a-half plates. Unlike Kline's previous hit A Fish Called Wanda, the plot of this film is a bit familiar and predictable, and Kline's Italian grated on my nerves like parmigian cheese after about 15 minutes, but the film tastes excellent smothered in tomato sauce, mozzarella, pepperoni, ground beef, and anchovies with just a twist of lemon and lime.

Big: I gotta disagree with you up to a point. I give the movie four plates, three scratches, and two burps. Who cares about the guy's accent? My problem with the movie is the fact that everyone tries to persuade Joey to give up the babes. But you're right about the taste of the film. A gift for the palate, as they say in France. The squirrel I ran over in the parking lot didn't taste too bad, either.

Nessie: That's our show for this week. Join us again, when we will compare films on the big screen to videotape. Which are tastier? Until then, I'm Nessie, the pretty one.

Big (clearing his throat): And I'm—

Nessie: Careful, this is a family show.

Big: Right. Hi there, sponsors. I'm Bigfoot, your humble servant.

Nessie (sighing with relief): Join us in 167 hours for Hand to Mouth.

Staff Reports

In a continual effort to enrich the college experience, the Campus Life Enrichment Committee is pleased to announce the upcoming events for the week of April 2-6.

•On Wednesday, April 4, Georgia Southern's math department, in cooperation with CLEC, is sponsoring a lecture by Walter Utz. The lecture will focus on the "computer trends from the '90s into the 21st century."

Utz has been a long-time computer specialist, working with companies such as IBM, RCA, Hewlett-Packard, and is currently employed by the Tandem Corporation. The event will begin at 10 AM in room 115 in the Henderson Library. For more information, contact Mark Aulick at 681-0088.

•CLEC's featured performance of the week is the critically acclaimed music and dance troupe AMAN. The Los Angeles-based ensemble will perform suites from around the world, including dances from Yugoslavia, India, and Romania, as well as the United States' own Southwest Louisiana and Appalachia.

AMAN is one of the continuing events in CLEC's performing arts series and will begin precisely at 8 PM on Thursday, April 8 in McCroan Auditorium.

Tickets are free to all students, faculty, and staff with valid GSC identification and are available in the information office located in the Administration Building from 8 AM to 5 PM weekdays. For more information, contact Leslie Tichich at 681-5434.

•Sponsored by CLEC and the history department, Professor Samuel Hill, an authority on Southern religion, will speak on campus Monday, April 9 at 7:30 PM in room 213 of the Conference Center. Hill, a member of the University of Florida's religion department, will discuss "How Southern Religion Looks in Seattle or Boston: Distinctives, Anomalies, and Particular Strengths."

Hill teaches courses at the University of Florida that emphasize religion in the Southern culture, religion in the American culture and the history of Christianity. He is the author of dozens of scholarly articles published in 10 highly-received books on religion, including the Encyclopedia of Religion in the South.

•CLEC has planned over 30 events for spring quarter, ranging from the performing arts to departmental lectures. In an effort to keep the GSC, as well as the Statesboro, community informed, CLEC will be contributing regular columns to the George-Anne this quarter.

For more information concerning CLEC activities, feel free to call Leslie Tichich.

Announcements

From George-Anne staff reports

—The teen pop sensations New Kids on the Block will perform in Hanner Fieldhouse Saturday night. Tickets will be on sale at the Hanner ticket office until the day of the concert. The opening act for the wildly successful Boston-based group will be Aerosmith, another Beantown band.

—The critically acclaimed Atlanta-based rock band The Ellen James Society will perform at the Rockin' Eagle Friday, April 6 at 9 PM.

—Basketball superstar Michael Jordan will visit the GSC Museum today as part of the museum's exhibit on sports accessories. The exhibit, "Millions and Millions of Years of Basketball Shoes: From Og the Crawler to Michael 'Air' Jordan," will be on display until April 10.

—As part of the Health Center's sex awareness series, sex therapist and radio talk show hostess Dr. Ruth Westheimer will appear in the Biology Lecture Hall at 1 PM tomorrow to discuss "Students who Feel the Need to Wear Sex Wax t-shirts." Couples are invited to help demonstrate proper use of the product. For more information, call Dr. Ruth at 555-5SEX.

—As part of the Performing Arts Series, the international dance troupe AMAN will perform April 5 at 8 p.m. in McCroan Auditorium. The group's appearance will be sponsored by the Campus Life Enrichment Committee (CLEC). Admission is free. For more information, call Leslie Tichich at 681-5434 or 681-5363.

—Former heavyweight champ Mike Tyson and singer Michel'le will deliver the speech "Why our Speaking Voices Sound Like we Swallowed Helium Balloons." The 2 PM speech at the Conference Center Friday will be sponsored by Betty Boop and the communication arts department. For more information, call Gilbert Gottfried at 55-WHINE.

—In a speech sponsored by CLEC and the history department, Dr. Samuel Hill will discuss "How Southern religion looks in Seattle or Boston" on April 9 at 7:30 p.m. in the Southern Center for Continuing Education, room 213. For more information, call George Shriver at 681-5850.

Sorry, folks, the editor was so damn busy filling in the crossword puzzle — in ink, no less — that he forgot to finish up his page. Actually, we think he cheated by using the answer key. Oh well...

Being an editor who is truly concerned for the student body here at GSC, I wish only to promote a harmonious atmosphere for the students this quarter. Therefore, I have made a list of demands for the administration which I feel are justified and reasonable. These demands will no doubt make student life much better around campus. Let it be known that the following demands are made with the students' best interests in mind.

First of all, I want that large, vacant room on the fourth floor of the Henderson Library to be renovated and made into a snack bar/dance club for students. With students studying long, hard hours at night at the library, they all need a place to go when it's over. Instead of having them traipse across campus to The Collegiate or Dingus Macgees, they can just cruise right upstairs to the "Fourth Floor Flamingo." A dance floor with progressive music playing is ideal for students wishing to "let loose after a good half hour of studying! And since so many students are in the library anyway, business would boom!

Next I feel that we students need a break from these parking tickets.

From The Editor's Desk
Clint Rushing

I call for a one quarter moratorium on all parking tickets. It's obvious that the parking problem is not going to get any better this spring, so why not let the students off easy this quarter after collecting over $61,000 from us last quarter? This way the administration will have plenty of time to put an effective parking plan into effect for the upcoming summer quarter.

Alright, next I want to forbid any teacher to give a final on a Saturday afternoon after the quarter has ended. Many of us students were stuck right here in Statesboro on St. Patrick's Day until 4 p.m. taking finals! Why? Surely we could have squeezed those tests into the previous three days, huh? I request that all finals be given on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, never again on Friday or Saturday.

Now what would a list of demands be if it didn't benefit the author at least a little? That's right, I want some new carpet here in the office. Not lime green carpet with brown spots; I want some good carpet, like Dr. Henry's office has. And we also need two more computers up here. Imagine all that we produce during a deadline period being put together on two little Macintosh SEs! Give us more money! A stereo system with huge speakers would aid us in our late night deadline vigils here in the office. And we could even drown out the noise coming from WVGS through the 1/4 inch plywood walls. Imagine that. A new coat of paint is in order as well for our dirt stained walls; and we'd also like a 10 per cent salary increase. These demands are not too much for the administration to help with; I think I'm perfectly justified in these requests.

If drop/add is always going to be the way it is at GSC, I also demand that students be given chairs to sit in as they wait in line for hours. Every time the line advances we could make a game out of it, like musical chairs. Seriously though, who in the hell wants to stand in line for hours to adjust his schedule? If the administration can't improve the way drop/add is done, at least they can give us chairs to sit in as we wait. Refreshments isn't a bad idea either; a lot of us miss meals standing in that God-forsaken drop/add line. Who would sacrifice his place in line to go eat? Give us a break!

Next, since most students would rather be at a beach than in school, I propose that the administration turn Sweetheart circle into a man-made beach complete with white sand, a cement bottom ocean with wave simulator and volleyball nets. This way students can have their own little beach blast here at GSC. We could even use it for volleyball class. Sure this idea would damage the scenery of GSC, but who really cares as long as the students are happy? What about funding this demand? I say take it from the "parking ticket fund!"

Lastly, I demand that CAB hold a student appreciation MONTH. As soon as the student union is completed I demand CAB to sponsor a concert free to all students at GSC. I say bring The Stones, Rush, The Smithereens, and Young MC to have a JULY JAM at the student union. What better way to break that $10 million building in? And how shall we fund this multi-million dollar concert? I say we take it from the "parking ticket fund!"

GSC Greeks demand end to leading role of party

Statesboro witnessed its largest protest march since the heady days of the 1960's this weekend, as thousands of Greeks took over Sweetheart Circle and the Administration Building, demanding an end to the "leading role of the party," long a mainstay of Greek life on campus. Protest signs unimaginable as recently as last year could be seen throughout the crowd, with slogans such as "Take off your Beer Goggles" and "Keep your edge."

Not all the crowd was enthusiastic about the possibility of expanding opportunities for weekend entertainment, however. "There'll be nothing to do," grumbled one onlooker with a faded Spuds McKenzie t-shirt. A group of volunteers from local night spots vowed to put on a "Drunk-Fest" to publicize the possibilities of a sotted life and show students not everyone has to be dragged kicking and screaming into the future. "I would rather back into the future, numbed out," commented Drunk-Fest organizer Moody Wobbleway. "Sit on some ice," countered a neat, clean marcher holding one end of a 10 foot "Say no to Alcohol" banner.

Asked what sorts of activities were likely to fill the anticipated party vacuum, Greek Federation President Bill Keeg said, "I don't know,...it sucks. We'll have to see what gets drawn in. Probably more studying." Officials at Henderson Library have announced contingency plans for adding extra stacks and late weekend hours to accommodate unsodden former party members looking for a safe haven.

Brother Jim Satan backs GSC Greeks-Bro. Jim deal

Dear Editor,

As a study Greek leader here at GSC, I am writing this letter in hopes that I will be able to persuade some of those lost souls (independents) out there to get found.

A great thing happened just last week, my fraternity brothers and I won over a lost soul to Zeus. Big deal, huh? Well it is a big deal because that lost soul was none other than the once infamous Brother Jim.

He came to us a broken man. He had no girlfriend. He had no duck-head shorts. He had no jersey to identify himself with a group of socialites. He wanted to drink. He wanted to party. He wanted to participate in our blissful Greek organization. WE GAVE HIM ALL OF THAT!

Imagine a once lost man, attempting to preach his way through life and into heaven, suddenly changing his ideals. It is as if he had a 180 degree turn around and saw the light! My frat brothers and I are so very happy to have brought Brother Jim to grips with reality. Now he's accepted! Now he's able to pick up at parties! Now he's able to wear our letters on his chest and call himself a real man!

I felt it necessary to write you and let GSC know that the student body doesn't have to be losers. There is hope my fellow students! If everyone would just give the Greek organizations the chance, we could all change our lives drastically. Just ask Brother Jim. Even you Clint, have a chance at studliness! Yes that's right, you could be somebody, too! I appeal to the student body at GSC, come to where the future lies; come join us Greeks!

Scott Surrency
President I Eta Zeta/Psi Psi Chapter

Dear Editor,

I just heard the news, Brother Jim has changed his ways! I had to write and tell you how excited I am to know that those wonderful Greeks have done a marvelous job of coercing and persuading!

For thousands of years I have been waiting to see the Greeks take over the secular world, and winning a once steadfast idiot like Brother Jim over is just another step toward our world conquest.

You may not realize this, Clint, but the Greeks and I have formed a coalition; and GSC is our current target market. Let the persuading of Brother Jim be a sign to all, that we shall overcome the independents someday!!

Satan

Bro. Jim sees the light, finally

Dear Editor,

I have seen the light!! I am writing to tell you and the rest of the GSC student body (those independents of course) that I was wrong about Greeks. That's right, I was preaching the gospel to them from a closed minded point of view. All it took for me to see the light was one party. Let me explain.

I was invited to a frat party last quarter. Not being afraid, I accepted this invitation to see what it's all about at GSC. When I arrived that night I was amazed to see what looked like 400-500 college students in and around the frat house where the party was being held. Each person had a cup with a drink in it, which I did not condone UNTIL I took a few sips myself. I figured after a long day in the pulpit I was deserving of a few drinks to wind down; the brothers were more than happy to fill my grail time and again.

Well eventually I was laughing and having a great time. Girls were dancing with me; brothers were shaking my hand and congratulating me on my current state of coherence; I was partying ass!!

Later that night a frat brother introduced me to his little sister, and I don't mean his kin folk! She was wearing next to nothing and about as coherent as I so, in light of that situation I did what comes natural at a frat party: I picked up! I grabbed her and threw her in my car and we went weaving down the road of fornication, only this time I was driving the black chariot of sin and lovin' every minute of it!! Boy let me tell you one thing, that girl put some moves on me I thought only happened in XXX rated movies! Needless to say my adventure into the veritable hot bed of immorality known as Greek life was fruitful and exciting, so much that I have decided to pledge a fraternity here at GSC! That's right, I was invited to come back and be a pledge; the brothers like my style of drinking and womanizing so much they told me I'd be a shoo-in for brotherhood.

I have finally found what it is I have been searching for. I have found a group of guys whom I can conform to and pay dues for doing it. No longer will I search for my identity; the brothers said they'd get me one. No longer will I preach the gospel that Greeks are fornicators and sorority girls are Lusty, Lusty, Lusty. Mr. Editor, let me tell you this for DOUBLE EMPHASIS; you may take this to heart since you're so opposed to Greek life, if you can't beat 'em, join 'em! I did! And now I can party and pick up all I want. No more waiting for an invitation to a frat party, I give 'em out now! I'll have so many friends; I just can't wait!

I just felt like I needed to tell everyone that I am back, but now I am a Greek at GSC and lovin' it! If any of you out there feel lost and lonely, church is fine, but a frat house will suffice as well. Think about it!

Sincerely changed for the better,
Brother Jim

*Blue building Honored

The American Historical Society has designated the Blue Building, GSC's oldest temporary building, as a National Historic Landmark. Ms. Itzan Oldwun, society chairperson, stated that the long-standing history of the appropriately named building, as well as its age, allowed it to be put on the national register.

Many students protested at the ceremony claiming that one of the society's rules would cause a problem for the campus. The rule in question states that any building on the list may not be torn down. President Henry stated that since there are no plans to get rid of "any of these lovely temporary buildings, there is no reason to keep them off of such lists."

*Liquor Legalized in Bulloch

In a surprise move, the Statesboro City Council held the annual liquor election during spring break. The council felt that holding the election during that time would decrease the number of student votes, thus inhibiting the chance of the proposal's passage.

To the shock of Bulloch County residents, the pro-liquor forces outnumbered their opposition and passed the legislation, thus allowing the sale of alcoholic beverages other than beer, wine, and champagne.

Area convenience stores expect their first liquor orders to be delivered early next week.

*Hay Fever Cure

The GSC Biology department, in conjunction with the GSC health center, have apparently discovered the long-searched-for cure for hay fever. The Potion, which was discovered accidentally by a student assistant on his lunch break, is a properly mixed solution of Jagermeister and Milwaukee's "Beast" beer.

The health center was swamped with volunteers Wednesday when word leaked that the cure would be tested on students that afternoon. Police were giving rides home all night to people who had been cured.

GSC Student Trashes Police car

By SAM KINISON

Yesterday a GSC student, known only as Drew, carried out what police are calling "a personal vendetta" against an unmarked police car.

An unmarked state patrol car was demolished through a student's action while parked on campus yesterday.

It was shortly after midday when officer Jones returned to his car parked near the Newton Building and found that it had been demolished by a rather large pine tree.

The only evidence found at the scene were the chainsaw marks on

The note read as follows:

Pig,

I hope that you are appreciative of the modifications your car has undergone. As you may have guessed already, I'm not too fond of cops, especially those who are too cowardly to display their nature to the public by driving unmarked cars. Here's for the tickets your friends gave me last quarter. Stay off our campus! We have enough police on campus without importing them from the outside. I hope you get run over by a gas truck and taste your own Blood!

Metallica Rules

Drew.

As of yet police have no suspects in the case. However a sizeable award is being offered to anyone having information leading to the arrest and conviction of this crazed madman. Those having information and wishing to remain anonymous may contact the Georgia State Patrol at their toll free hotline 1-800-462-NARC.

Hermit presumed Dead in Collapse

By ANN ARKIST
Staff Writer

A Bulloch County man has been blamed for numerous disasters in recent months. Herman Hertz, AKA "Hermit," seems to have developed an overzealous telepathical mind which he blames on his diet of oat bran and Metamucil.

He first noticed his developing powers when his neighbor refused to return his garden hoe a few summers ago. "As I walked back to my house after that argument, I was fuming mad. All of a sudden, I heard a crash; I turned around just in time to see my neighbor's tool shed collapse."

At first Hermit passed the action off as coincidence, but he soon noticed that anytime he gets mad at anyone, something of that person's is destroyed. He had to learn to control that power.

After learning to use his powers wisely, Hermit was hired by GSC as a special disasters agent for the school. In fact, in 1988, Hermit was called by the school to inexpensively dismantle the old Alumni Gym, and played an important role in the tearing down of the Berlin Wall.

Lately, though Hermit has lost some of the control he once possessed. When a cement truck leaving the oxford hall area nearly ran him off the road last week, He accidentally caused the truck to overturn. Fearing further danger to the public, Hermit was committed to the now-collapsed Psychiatric wing of Bulloch Memorial Hospital.

He was presumed dead after the collapse in March, but rumors are surfacing that he is still lurking in the county, happy for now, but still near the edge, waiting for the next jerk to come along.

Cop Report

From G-A Staff Reports

* Someone broke into the chemistry lab in the Herty Building and switched the labels on the containers. The following day, The Chemistry 352 class accidentally discovered cold fusion, and were nominated for a Nobel prize.

* Bill D. Catt reported someone had raided the freezer at the Landrum Cafeteria and took a case of frozen coon-cicles. The perpetrator was found passed out in his car as it was being towed from the area immediately behind the mail center.

* A Campus secur..., excuse me, police car was reported stolen last night. It's whereabouts are still unknown, but eye witnesses described the perpetrator as a red-faced man who was short with balding gray hair, and answered to the name nick.

* Three employees of Landrum were arrested and charged with possession of contaminated substances with intent to distribute.

* Ms. Black N. Decker, the substitute vacuum lady at Landrum center was charged with assault with a household appliance on warrants taken out by three students who claimed that she chased them with the suck-it-up vacuum cleaner in the mail center. Decker was overheard to say, "Well, they kept stepping on my cord!"

* Three units at the In the Pines Apartments were gutted in an early morning fire. The section was a total loss, and damages have been estimated as high as $2.69.

* 17 GSC students were caught by Statesboro Police while drinking under age. NO CHARGES were pressed against the students. April Fool!

* Three former Flying Eagle/Texaco employees were observed protesting in front of the former Time Saver. The students were protesting mistreatment and dismissals by management due to the fact that had decided to no longer employ GSC students. No foolin'.

AMAN DANCES TOMORROW!

Don't miss this outstanding international music and dance company from L.A. Free tickets to GSC faculty, staff, and students (with i.d.) available at the Administration Building Information Window, weekdays 8 am - 5 pm, while they last. Performance is April 5, 8 pm in McCroan Auditorium. A CLEC event. Info 681-5434.

NOTICE

REGENTS' TEST REGISTRATION SPRING QUARTER, 1990

DATES: April 4th, 5th, & 6th (Wednesday, Thursday, & Friday)

TIMES: 9:00 A.M. to 4:00P.M. (Each day)

PLACE: Williams Center, T.V. Lobby (Upstairs)

Due to large numbers of students taking the Regents' Test, a three day registration period is being used rather than the standard two day registration. NOTE: NO LATE REGISTRATION OR STANDBY REGISTRATION WILL BE AVAILABLE DURING SPRING QUARTER.

Students with forty-five hours or more are eligible to register. Those with less than forty-five hours who have successfully completed their first English course and are presently enrolled in their second English course are also eligible.

First time registrants or those who have taken and failed both parts of the test must register for sections labeled "Both".

When registering, choose a time that will not conflict with your schedule. You will not be allowed to change or alter your selected registration time, place, or section.

Sports Briefs

GSC adds new varsity sport:

The Eagles will now compete in full contact polo. The Southern Boosters proposed the new sport after seeing an indoor lacrosse game and Wrestlemania XIII. "We think that this could generate a lot of revenue for the other programs within the college, in addition to the fact that it is an exciting new sport and recruits should be lining up to coming to GSC now," said Frank Hook, Executive Director of Southern Boosters.

Hockey Flames to return to Atlanta:

The Calgary Flames have decided to return to Atlanta after several years and three NHL Stanley Cup victories. "Our players are tired of freezing their butts off up here," said Flames spokesman I. Cant Forecheck. "Also, we think that after having to suffer through the Braves, Hawks, and Falcons for so long, Atlanta deserves a winning team."

Statesboro to bid for major league baseball:

A group of local investors headed by I. M. Looney has entered into discussions with baseball commissioner Fay Vincent about the possibility of getting a major league franchise in Statesboro. "Hell, we could add a few seats to Clements Stadium and we'd be just fine," said Looney. There has been no comment from the commissioner's office, just this non-stop laughter.

Eagle football tickets will be increased:

The GSC Athletic Department announced that student football ticket prices would be doubled. "We need to pay for the expansion somehow," explained Athletic Director Bucky Wagner.

Falcons go to college:

The Atlanta Falcons announced that they would be exchanging spots with the Miami Hurricanes. "Hell," said Falcons head coach Jerry Glanville, "This should show the people of Atlanta that we're serious about winning a championship. So what if it's only the National Championship, now at least we've got a shot."

GSC schedules Falcons for fall '90:

The Eagles will play the Falcons on September 2nd. "We needed a patsy, so it was them or West Georgia College and they offered us a better chance to go undefeated," said GSC Athletic Director Bucky Wagner.

Southern Grand Prix scheduled for April:

The 66th Annual Southern Grand Prix will be held Friday, April 13th, beginning at 12 p.m.. When asked what he thought of GSC's chances in the race, team manager, Bridgestone F. Goodrich said, "We've not only got a great team this year, but we also have luck on our side."

Salmonella takes first place for GSC:

Sparky Salmonella won first place in the Georgia Regional Shock and Purge Competition Saturday. This was the first contest of its kind in the state, but spectators agreed that it is an up and coming sport.

Eagles end uniform color confusion:

The GSC Eagle's A.D. Bucky Wagner announced Friday that they will adopt new blue, white, gold, and red plaid uniforms. "We had many complaints since none of our teams wear uniforms that are exactly the same color. We really didn't want the red, but the baseball team insisted on it," said Wagner.

Softball field to be renovated for team:

At the many requests of the softball team, the Athletic Department has funded a complete renovation of the softball diamond. "The girls should play on a field that is every bit as good as the men's field, APRIL FOOL!!!" said Hern Sneed, college spokesman.

Stowers makes Erk an "offer he could't refuse"

By SLAP MAXWELL
Fictitious schmuck

Erk Russell accepts a check from the head of the "Tim Stowers for head coach" committee, Vito. The other man is some fool that wandered aimlessly into the picture as it was taken. (File Photo)

In a startling turn of events, it was recently discovered that former Eagle head football coach Erk Russell did not retire "voluntarily." Russell, 63, was paid off by the new head coach, Tim Stowers, so that Stowers could take that position.

"Timmy decided to make Coach Russell an offer he couldn't refuse," said a source close to Stowers, who would only identify himself as Vito.

Apparently, Stowers, who coveted Russell's job, grew weary of waiting for Russell to retire, so he enlisted the help of several "friends" to pressure him into retiring and giving him a recommendation for the position.

Russell led the Eagles to their third national championship and an undefeated record in 1989. The Eagles' other championships came in 1985 and 1986.

"Timmy had mixed emotions about winning the championship last season. He felt good for the players, but he knew that the victory would only make his dream of being head coach that much harder to get because Russell would be able to stay as long as he was alive," added Vito.

Russell apparently declined Stowers' first several offers, but Stowers was not to be denied. After several "friends" of Stowers called Russell to try to "influence" him to take Stowers' offer and retire, Erk finally gave in.

"Erk said, 'Hell, he offered so much damn money and my knees are bad enough as it is, I decided to take the money just so he would leave me alone!'," said a source close to Russell. Russell has not said anything publicly, but would neither deny or confirm the report.

Athletic director Bucky Wagner categorically denied that Russell was bought off. "Neither Erk nor Tim would be involved in anything like that, but I would like to thank Erk donating such a large amount to the new fund raising drive. With him being retired now, I don't see how he managed to find that kind of money," said Wagner.

Stowers also would neither confirm nor deny the report, but did say "I would never expect Erk to give up coaching for just money, no matter how large the amount! By the way, could I borrow a few bucks for dinner?"

Stowers apparently did not give Russell only money, though the monetary portion was quite large, he also agreed to supply Russell with enough cigars to last him for the rest of his life, a year's supply of monoxodyl, and allow him to yell at Raymond Cross anytime he screws up [in Russell's view].

Several players noticed a difference in Russell in the weeks leading up to the announcement.

"Yeah, he was dressing real nice lately. You know, flashy ties, suits without polyester in them. The whole nine yards," said Cross.

"He's growing hair on his head!!! He's also got a cigar all the time, you know he used to just smoke them after we would win, I guess because they're so expensive, but now he's always smoking them," added full-back Joe Ross.

Stowers now has the job he wants, but is also leery of Russell's son, Jay, and the possibility that the same offer could be made to him. He has made arrangements to prevent that from happening.

"Uh, yeah, Timmy wants us to keep our ears open just in case," said Vito.

The team will begin spring practice and the annual blue and white scrimmage game soon. Stowers seems to be excited about the new season and the all the attention he'll soon receive.

"Yeah, it should be great. Everyone will be around to see if we can repeat with a new coach. Sports-writers will want interviews, so they'll take me out to dinner, that'll be cool," said Stowers.

Wagner to terminate all sports, but football

LL
Sports Stud

GSC Athletic Director Bucky Wagner announced yesterday that all school sports programs except football will be dropped.

Men's and women's basketball will be dropped at the end of the 1990-91 season, with all other sports terminated immediately.

"Everyone gears all their energy toward football anyway," Wagner said. "So we just figured we'd get all the other distractions ... uh ... programs out of the way."

Head basketball coach Frank Kerns sounded, of all things, unenthused.

"Well ... you know, when you only win 17 games, I guess you can expect this sort of thing to happen," he said. "I would like us to go out on a high note by winning the conference our last year, but I'm worried because other schools already have started coming after Monty Noblitt."

To everyone's surprise, new head football coach Tim Stowers was disappointed with the news.

"My first year was gonna be tough enough, what with losin' Chip McGinley and all," he said. "And now my team is the only one to support around here. That's pressure."

The football coaching staff tried to compensate for the loss by offering head baseball coach Jack Stallings a job.

Stowers said, "We did it 'cause we figure he looks a hell of a lot like Erk."

However, Stallings, feeling that nothing could replace his head baseball job, turned down the position.

"There we were, 22-9 and in first place in the conference," he said. "And out of the blue we're told to quit. I love this school, but I just can't do anything other than sit in a dugout."

Stallings plans to spend the rest of his days hanging out at Snooky's with Erk.

Women's track coach Del Presley knew the end of his program was just around the corner.

"Awareness of women's track at this school had been at an all-time low," Presley said. "Why just last week three of our gals were running down Herty Drive and an on-looker thought they were just three 'Eagle Explosion' dancers trying to firm up their thighs."

The track program was news to the on-looker.

Wagner denied rumors that the football team would begin playing year-round, including games at Hanner Fieldhouse and J.I. Clements Stadium.

"Oh, sure, we'd actually get to play at night at Clements," Wagner said. "But I just can't imagine a Raymond Gross fumble anywhere other than Paulson Stadium."

Kerns-

By DICK VITALE
Annoying sportscaster, baby!

After collecting his 300th victory this year, some people were calling Eagle head coach Frank Kerns, a basketball machine. They didn't realize that they were right. Kerns was found standing in his office Friday with a battery charger hooked up to his ears and muttering "Well, if you stay around long enough ..." repeatedly.

Kerns, who is known for his calm, level headed, emotionless style, has been provoking comments about being like a robot for years, but until now no one actually envisioned it to be true.

"Well, we needed a coach in a hurry because J.B. [Searce, Kerns' predecessor] wanted to retire. So, with the help of J.B. and Keith Hickman [Department head and professor] of Industrial Technology, we created 'Coach Kerns'. He was ideal, knowledgeable, inexpensive and built to stay that way," said Athletic Director Bucky Wagner, at a press conference on Saturday.

Kerns operates on six "D" cell batteries. After initially going through 24 batteries a week, Hickman gave approval to switch to rechargeable batteries.

"We tried the GE [General Electric] brand first, but we decided that Radio Shack had the best one's for our needs," said Hickman. "After Basketball coach Frank Kerns that switch Kerns has been running perfectly ever since."

The announcement came as little surprise to the players.

"Every now and then, his speech would speed up and slow down. As a matter of fact, in one game it stopped completely," said senior forward Mike Curry.

Mike Newell, coach of rival Arkansas-Little Rock, had a different reaction. "I can't believe I lost to a robot. God, I mean, I knew he was a level headed guy, but Jesus! But hey, that's fine. They still gotta play us in Little Rock! I guarantee you this team won't beat us in Little Rock. That's right and the officials were LOUSY..." said Newell, before several men in white coats dragged into another room.

Since it isn't a violation of NCAA rules, Kerns will stay on as coach at GSC. But as a precaution against any advantages a team might try to gain, microwaves and other similar devices will no longer be allowed to be brought into Hanner Fieldhouse.

"Well, if you stay around long enough and you win enough games, you're likely to run into a situation like this, I don't worry about it much," said Kerns.

Swim team battles foes and gravity at home

By JACQUES COUSTEAU

It was announced Friday that all swim meets at Hanner Natatorium would be suspended indefinitely because of a gravity problem with the pool. Divers and swimmers cannot dive into the pool as there is no gravity in the Natatorium.

"They dive off the board, but all they do is hit their heads on the roof," said men's swimming coach Bud Floyd.

A crack team of GSC scientists and physical plant operations employees will be sent in to investigate the phenomena next week, according to Athletic Director Bucky Wagner. Apparently, they would go this week, but no one has submitted a work order to plant operations and well, you know they won't do anything without a work order.

The team will be headed by visiting professor of physics, Wher Am I.

"We will get to the bottom of this problem, so the teams can get back to training as soon as possible," said Am I.

The scientific team will be using highly sensitive equipment that will be used to take many different measurements and readings. Unfortunately, that equipment won't be set up for at least three weeks because the physical plant did not receive a work order yet and you know they can't do anything without a work order.

Plant spokesman, I. M. Stalling, said that they would do anything that the scientific team needed, but they apparently have many other projects that cannot be stopped right now.

"Well, we have to lay the rest of the sod in front of South building, then Apt 425 in The Pines needs new cabinets, and well they had their work orders in a long time ago and we don't think it would be fair to do work for someone that hasn't turned in any work orders yet. As you know, we can't do anything if we don't receive a work order," said Stalling.

In the meantime, the team has been practicing in Lake Ruby in front of the Henderson library.

"It's not too bad, but the geese

An unidentified diver discovers the lack of gravity in Hanner and ducks get a little upset. You know they hiss and run after the team, but it's real bad when the sneak up behind the team when they're in the water. Jesus, I hate that. I think we should nuke those little..." said Floyd, unable to continue.

The swim team has been practicing all week, but the diving team is just watching for the moment. The diving boards that were supposed to be installed for their use haven't even been begun yet.

"We received the work order today," said Stalling. "I figure that we should be able to put those things up within, say two weeks after we get that scientific stuff at the pool."

April Fool's serious for some Christians

By DAVID CARLTON
©Copyright 1990, USA TODAY/Apple
College Information Network

For Merry Christians everywhere, April Fools' Day is a time to get serious about juicing up staid church ritual with practical jokes, clown noses and assorted liturgical merrymaking.

"What we're trying to do is recapture the spirit of joy, unity and healing power of the early Christians," said Cal Samra, editor of a newsletter by the 13,000-member interdenominational Fellowship of Merry Christians Inc.

For example, because April Fools' Day falls on Sunday, Socataco the Clown will preach at the Campus Chapel of Christian Reformed Ministry at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Mich. Socataco is really the Rev. Floyd Shaffer, a minister from Euclid Lutheran Church in Euclid, Ohio.

Over this weekend, the Fellowship of Merry Christians and the Catholic Charismatic Renewal Center of St. Louis are sponsoring a retreat titled "Humor, Healing and Hope: Spiritual Medicine for the '90s" at Kenrick Pastoral Center in St. Louis.

Last April Fools' Day, the Rev. Donald Postema handed out red clown noses at church, and a youth group swiped a "Fools for Christ" sermon that Rev. Rick Lemberg prepared for his First Presbyterian Church in Casa Grande, Ariz.

As ransom, Lemberg had to sing "Jesus Loves Me" to his congregation.

The Fellowship of Merry Christians, formed three years ago, sports a drawing of a laughing Jesus on its letterhead. Samra said the group plans "Easter Monday (April 16) celebrations with churches and prayer groups to observe God's last laugh on the devil when He raised Jesus from the dead."

In some countries, Easter Monday has been observed as a day of joy and laughter since the fourth century.

Mexican Americans in San Antonio hold a weeklong celebration after Easter with parades and parties. Cascarones — decorated Easter eggs filled with confetti — are broken on the heads of relatives and friends.

The empty shell symbolizes the empty tomb; the confetti is a reminder of the joy Christians felt at the news of Christ's resurrection.

The Rev. Conrad Hyers, a Presbyterian minister who heads the religion department at Gustavus Adolphus College in St. Peter, Minn., wrote in the newsletter, "Some churches have so successfully cultivated a somber mood that their sanctuaries resemble funeral parlors more than places of celebration.

"If the Gospel really is good news, when do we get to shout 'Whoopie!'"

MUSBURGER OUT AT CBS:

CBS announced Sunday it will not renew the contract of announcer Brent Musburger. Reason: A need for more leading roles for young announcers, according to CBS Sports president Neal Pilson. Monday's NCAA championship game will be the last appearance by the 50-year-old Musburger.

STATES CONSIDER RESTRICTIONS:

Experts say Idaho Governor Cecil Andrus' veto of an anti-abortion bill Saturday shows just what a pivotal role state governor's play in the issue. The Idaho bill is similar to legislation introduced in Alabama, Utah, Maryland and Minnesota. Only Minnesota is expected to vote on it this year. Also, 41 states have considered restricting abortion this year.

24 SUPPORT ABORTION RIGHTS:

USA TODAY asked the nation's governors where they stand on abortion. Twenty-four say they support varying degrees of abortion rights as a matter of public policy. But 21 oppose them. Also, five governors were unavailable for comment or had no stand.

FACTORY ORDERS UP IN FEBRUARY:

Orders to factories were up by 1.8 percent in February from January to a seasonally adjusted $231.6 billion, the Commerce Department said. Leading the rise: demand for automobiles, defense items and communications equipment. According to analysts, the rise was not enough to offset January's 5.5 percent drop, the steepest since December 1974.

INVESTMENT INDICATOR DOWN:

In the area of non-defense capital goods, an indicator of business investment plans, orders to factories fell 6 percent in February from January, following a 13.6 percent drop in January, according to the Commerce Department. Also, inventories eased 0.1 percent in February, to $373.9 billion, after a 0.9 percent gain the previous month.

VICTORY ON NOMINATION:

The Bush administration won a surprise victory, as the Democrat-controlled Senate banking committee voted 11-10 to send T. Timothy Ryan's name to the Senate floor for confirmation as director of the Office of Thrift Supervision. Two Democrats broke ranks and voted for Ryan: Sen. Richard Shelby, D-Ala., and Sen. Terry Sanford, D-N.C., who knows Ryan personally.

DISCOVERY TO CARRY EXPERIMENT:

A Battelle experiment that could result in improved polymer membranes for applications such as kidney and blood dialyses will be on board the NASA Space Shuttle Discovery scheduled for launch April 12. The Investigations into Polymer Membrane Processing experiment will determine if microgravity allows a polymer solution to form a film differently from the way it would on earth.

SHUTTLE LAUNCH MOVED UP:

NASA is moving up the launch of shuttle Discovery and the $1.5 billion Hubble Space Telescope to April 10, two days before planned. Launch of the five-day mission is set for 8:47 EDT. Hubble is the most expensive scientific payload built. It will orbit Earth for 15 years and allow astronomers to view stars and galaxies seven times more distant than can be seen with ground telescopes.

DOCTOR BIAS INFLUENCES CARE:

The type of care a patient gets for chest pain is influenced more by a doctor's biases than by the patient's condition. The New England Research Institute surveyed 192 patients and found insured patients were diagnosed with heart disease more than uninsured. Younger doctors more often diagnosed heart disease, gave drugs and urged lifestyle changes than older doctors do.

TYPE 'A' AND HEART ATTACKS:

Type "A" behavior is a major risk factor for sudden death in men who have suffered a mild heart attack. A Yale School of Medicine doctor says emotions can trigger fatal irregular heartbeats in people with mild heart disease.

No Nukes is Good Nukes...

NUKE LIST
by Tess Ticular

!! WARNING !!
The following should be used only in the event that you get totally wasted and don't have anything better to do. Your mission: to NUKE & NUKE again.

Your targets and purpose as follows:

Those horrid geese of Lakes Ruby and Wells: Many a day have we wished to rip the beaks right off the little suckers or maybe even turn them in to a Doug-Flutie-Hail-Mary pass across the top of Henderson Library.

The Pines parking-lot: The only lot of its kind designed so that there is NORIGHTWAY to enter or exit, no matter how you may try.

The College Store: The gag green roof has got to go and so do the book prices.

The Eagle: For causing all those innocent store ads to plunge to their deaths.

That generator from Hell behind Henderson: Methinks it a wee bit excessive, even to power two of the world's largest blow dryers. Besides, all that radiation will zap the humidity right out of all those green books.

Blanche's: It couldn't be any worse than those circa-1940 interrogation lamps being used for lighting in the service line.

Brother Jim and his Kodak camera: Cause he's just too good.

Georgia Tech-the ramblin' wreck: If you saw the game you'll know the reason why.

Lake Ruby: So she can finally deserve those DEEP WATER signs.

Hardee's 301 site: So something more useful can be put there, such as Bobby Joe Benson's Barn of Bait & Tackle tires.

The Pollen: So we can leave home without it.

It can go on and on, as long as the buzz does. But remember, the next time you're dissed (disrespected), don't just take it; down a few and NUKEM! TIL THEY GLOW!!

RA rules to change drastically

By HERPIE RESIDUE
Staff Janitor

Residence Life Head Hickie Sparhawk announced plans today for drastic changes in the requirements for Resident Assistants beginning Fall quarter of the 1990-1991 school year.

Sparhawk stated that recent problems arising in the residence halls had brought about the changes. She said, "Many factors have contributed to my decisions." Matters came to a head last week when three students were penned into their rooms by fellow residents and forced to listen to 6 straight hours of Zamfir albums. Another incident took place last week, when several RA's were attacked by an angry mob and held captive until Campus Security threatened to blow WVGS up if the Head Bangers did not release their hostages. Needless to say, the hostages were released immediately and the captors were taken into custody and given to the Psychology Department for the department's ongoing research.

Several of the new requirements are:

RA's will only be allowed to take five hours per quarter all consisting of PE classes. Marksmanship is required out of at least two of the three hours.

RA's will no longer carry any form of identification, to avoid giving residents any prior warning.

RA's will be required to wear flack jackets and carry a side arm at all times.

RA's will have 24 hour duty schedules followed by three days leave.

RA's will have the power to confiscate any and all personal belongings that they deem illegal or necessary for their own use.

A new pay scale has also been established that pays them on a per capita basis. This innovation gives the staff a great deal of incentive to enforce the rules to the utmost degree.

"It is a sad time when our residence halls require such drastic measures, but you have to go with the times and with the slimes," says Sparhawk about her new policies.
